RAILWAYS ARE AFTER GROSSEUP

Chicago Jurist Is Recipient of Flattering Offers From Northern Securities Company.

IS TO LEAVE BENCH

The Rumor Is Now Current That He Will Accept the Position.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Seeking the ablest jurists in the country to conduct its legal battle with the United States government, the Northern Securities company is making a strong effort to enlist the services of Judge Peter S. Grosscup of the Federal court to argue its cause when the case involving the legality of the organization is heard in the United States Supreme court this fall.

Judge Grosscup's acceptance of the tempting offer made him by the millionaires behind the Northern Securities company is said by men closely in touch with his affairs to be practically certain. In the absence of the Judge from Chicago, Marshall E. Sampsell, one of his most intimate friends, said that the offer has been under consideration for some time, and that in all probability the Judge would accept.

Offer is Tempting.

While the conditions of the offer made by the railroad magnates were not divulged, it is admitted that they were "flattering." The only barrier to Judge Grosscup's immediate acceptance, his friends say, lay in his desire to bring the local traction fight to a successful issue. On this account Judge Grosscup is loath to leave the Federal bench just at this time.

Already some of the ablest lawyers in the country have taken part in the legal battle the Northern Securities company is waging against the United States government. To the men who are fighting the government's attempt to break up this railroad combine money is no object, and the fee offered to secure the services of Judge Grosscup, who is recognized as one of the foremost authorities on anti-trust legislation in the country, is said to be unusually large.

Great Array of Lawyers.

The government has been represented in the prosecution by Attorney General Knox, his assistants, Jas. M. Beck and William A. Day, and Special Counsel David T. Watson and John M. Freeman. The principal argument was made by Mr. Watson, who is now representing the American boundary case in London.

The defendant corporations and stockholders employed men of equal note. One of the leading counsel for the defense was C. W. Bunn, son of Judge Romanzo Bunn of the Wisconsin Federal bench. Among the other legal aids for the defense were former Attorney General J. W. Griggs, Francis L. Stetson, David Wilcox George B. Young and M. D. Grover.

ANCIENTS START FOR THEIR TRIP

Honorable Artillery Company of London Starts for Boston, Mass., on Their Visit.

Liverpool, Sept. 24.—A splendid reception was extended to the Honorable Artillery company of London on its arrival here from the capital. The lord mayor and other city officials met the soldiers at the railway station, from which the company marched to the town hall, where a formal greeting was given them. They afterward marched to the docks where thousands gathered and gave them an enthusiastic sendoff.

As the Mayflower sailed at eight o'clock this evening the earl of Denbigh received the following telegram from the king:

Captain, General and Colonel: I wish you and the Honorable Artillery company a good passage out and a safe return home. I feel convinced that you will all meet with a most gratifying reception in the United States.

Edward R. The start in London was quite an event. To the strains of "The Star-Spangled Banner," "Marching Through Georgia" and other American airs the 200 members of the Honorable Artillery company who are taking the trip left the armory and marched through the streets. A large crowd of friends of the artillerymen assembled early at the armory to wish the company a successful "campaign." Many of the members of the company who participated in the previous visit expressed keen regret at being unable to accompany the departing detachment, while those going were evidently delighted at the prospect. Prior to the departure of the artillerymen the earl of Denbigh, commanding, paraded, the company, who were smart uniforms and good horses created an excellent impression.

SENATOR C. B. FARWELL. DIES AT LAKE FOREST

Congestion of the Lungs and Heart Failure Cause Death of Noted Merchant.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Charles B. Farwell, for almost half a century a prominent figure in the commercial and political life of Chicago, and the founder of Lake Forest university, died yesterday morning at his residence in Lake Forest. Congestion of the lungs and heart failure caused his death. Mr. Farwell had been an invalid for several years. Twice during the summer he was accidentally injured, once by falling from his carriage and more recently breaking his arm. These misfortunes hastened the end of his life. Mr. Farwell was 80 years old on July 1 last.

The funeral service will be held in the Presbyterian church at Lake Forest to-morrow afternoon at 1:45 o'clock. Dr. J. G. K. McClure will conduct it. The interment will be private.

INSIST GUNNERY WAS VERY POOR

General Hunter Has No Retraction To Make for Naval Battery.

London, Sept. 24.—In an interview on the subject of the demand made upon him by Rear Admiral Lampton for an apology as a result of his reflections on the shooting of the British cruiser Powerfoot's gun at Ladysmith, Lieut. Gen. Sir Archibald Hunter said: "The South African war commission was appointed to elicit facts and opinions. I am no more infallible than any one else, but, right or wrong, in my evidence before the commission it pronounced the opinion, which I believe to be true, that the shooting of the naval guns at Ladysmith was bad. So far as I am concerned the matter rests there."

London, Sept. 24.—A by-election was held at Rochester today to replace Viscount Cranborne, who resigned his seat in the house of commons on his elevation to the peerage, as a consequence of the death of his father, the marquis of Salisbury. The contest, which was keenly fought on the fiscal question, resulted in the conservatives retaining the seat, their candidate, Chas. Tuft, receiving 2,504 votes, against 1,984 recorded for Sir Henry Johnson, liberal.

The officer was on his way to Madison to get requisition papers to take McDevitt home.

KILLED A BANDIT

Express Messenger Shot Outlaws, Even After His Car Was Blown Up by Dynamite - Settles Two of His Assailants.

(Special by Scripps-McLean.)

Portland, Oregon, Sept. 24.—One bandit was killed, another wounded and captured, and Engineer Oliver Barrett shot, in an attempt by four masked men to rob the Atlantic express on the Oregon Railroad and Navigation company's line at Corbett, twenty miles east of this city last night. The wounded robber was caught by a posse at daylight. Barrett was shot in the left shoulder. The first intimation, the engineer had of the trouble was when two men crawled over the tender at Troutdale and covering himself and the fireman with revolvers ordered them to run to the twenty-one mile post. This was done and when the train came to a stop the two other masked men came out of the brush. The fireman and engineer were then given long poles to which sticks of dynamite had been attached and were ordered to blow up the express car if the messenger refused to open the door. Barrett called to the messenger, but receiving no reply the bandit took the dynamite and blew open the door, using a long fuse which gave them time to seek places of safety. Immediately after the explosion they started on their return to the car but within twenty feet of it the messenger opened fire, the first shot killing one of the bandits and the same bullet striking Barrett. The second shot wounded another bandit, who was picked up by the uninjured robbers and carried away. No further attempt was made to rob the car. At daylight a posse found the wounded man. Their companions are believed to have escaped down the Columbia river in a boat. A thousand dollars reward has been offered for their capture. Throughout the job the robbers kept up a fusillade to intimidate the passengers, none of whom ventured to offer resistance.

MESSANGER BOYS LOST MANY IN GO ON A STRIKE

CHICAGO MERCURIES ASK FOR TURKS LOOSE SIX HUNDRED IN SIX DOLLARS A WEEK.

AN EIGHT-HOUR DAY ALSO SHOW MUCH CRUELTY TO ALL

Managers Refuse, and Will Employ Girls, as They Did Last Spring.

(Special by Scripps-McLean.)

Chicago, Sept. 24.—The Western Union messenger boys struck this morning for six dollars a week and an eight-hour day. Their demands were refused and the managers say that they will quickly fill the places with girls the same as they did last spring when a similar strike came.

Felt in Janesville: The effect of the strike was indirectly felt in Janesville when several business men were delayed in securing connection with Chicago phone. The phone company has used the A. D. T. boys to call the parties desired to the telephone to day girls were used in the Chicago office.

The other day in Janesville was Refuses to Name Arbitrator or Recognize the Provisions of Improvement Companies.

Santo Domingo, Sept. 24.—The Dominion government has informed United States Minister Powell that it absolutely does not recognize the validity of the agreement regarding the claims of the Improvement company, and, therefore, cannot appoint an arbitrator in that case. Mr. Powell has informed the government that the engagements made must be kept, and that he expects it to name its arbitrators.

Flames Devour Thresher: Wm. Barr's threshing outfit on the farm of William Hart was entirely destroyed by fire Tuesday night, due to a spark from the engine. The blaze was first discovered in one of the straw stacks but in trying to put it out, more sparks caused the flames to spread and a general conflagration ensued. Barr bought a new outfit immediately and continued work.

Edwin Arnold of Chicago visited Janesville yesterday.

ARMED BANDITS HOLD UP OREGON EXPRESS TRAIN

Messenger Kills One of the Robbers When the Attempt Is Made to Enter His Car.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 24.—The Atlantic express on the Oregon railroad and Navigation company's line was held up at Corbett, twenty miles east of this city, shortly before 10 o'clock p.m. It is reported that Engineer Barrett was fatally shot. Details of the robbery are meager and it is not known whether the robbers secured anything or not.

The train was run to Bridal Veil, six miles where it will be met by an engine from the Dalles, bringing another engineer. A special train left this city for the scene at 11 o'clock carrying a posse. The Oregon railroad and Navigation company has offered a reward of $1,000 for the arrest of the highwaymen.

It is reported that when the robbers went to the express car and attempted to enter the express messenger opened fire and killed one of them.

ASKED AID FOR STARVING MEN

People of the Island of St. Kitts in the Direst Need, and Ask for Aid.

Sir Thomas, D. W. L., Sept. 24.—The Gazette of the British Island of St. Kitts says:

"The moment for the helping hand of the government to be extended cannot be much longer delayed. If the laboring population of the Islands of St. Kitts and Nevis is to be kept from starvation. An appalling condition of poverty exists. Able-bodied men and women are hardly earning enough to supply their daily wants."

The Times of the British Island of St. Vincent blames the government for the misery prevailing since the volcanic eruption in that island, adding that starvation and disease are killing many persons, and that a large number are half naked and homeless. Laborers of both sexes sleep in sheds and tattered tents erected a year ago, "harbors of disease and immortality and a disgrace to the colony."

TO PLAY BELOIT OCTOBER TENTH

No Practice Game Yet Arranged for Saturday—Much Interest Manifested.

It is not now likely that the high school football team will have a practice game Saturday with an outside team. Efforts have been made during the past week to arrange for a practice game with a Beloit college team but so far they have been unavailing. Prof. Norris has endeavored to talk with the Beloit coach and captain but up to today had been unable to arrange with the Beloit men.

Besides the date with Whitewater on Oct. 3 only one more game has been settled upon. This is on Oct. 10, when the Janesville team play the Beloit high school at Beloit. Enthusiasm among the players runs high and the turnouts to the practice games each evening are good.

STATE NOTES

United States Senator Quarles of Milwaukee was in Neenah, Wis., in connection with the draining of the thousands of acres of marsh land at the head of Lake Winnebago, for the introduction of which an appropriation will be asked by congress.

Beloit college has opened with about seventy freshmen enrolled, of which nearly one-half are young women.

Fire on the farm of William Lathe, near Beloit, caused a loss of $1,000. A thrashing machine was saved with difficulty.

The boarding house of the Crocker Chair company at their Elton sawmill, twenty miles east of Antigo, was burned on Wednesday.

The E. Kunert Manufacturing company of Watertown, bridge and structural iron manufacturers, will increase their capital stock another $25,000 and will build a new plant near the site of the old one, 300 feet long. New machinery will be added and seventy-five more hands will be employed.

Plans are being laid at Waukesha for a winter carnival to be held the first week in December on the river above the mill dam, and attractions will be secured to attract visitors from all parts of southern Wisconsin.

The mysterious disappearance of Barbara Ebert, the 14 year old daughter of Mrs. Elsie Klopp, who resides in Lake county, just over the Wisconsin line from Kenosha, has led to rumors that the child may have been kidnapped.

Philip Yeck, a workman at the Fairbanks-Morse plant in Beloit, was badly burned in a brave and successful effort to save a fellow employee from flames that had started from some gasoline.

Eddie Heff, who tried to wreck a Wisconsin Central Limited train a short time ago at Albeville, was sentenced to five years in the Green Bay reformatory by Judge Vlne & Chipewa Falls on Wednesday.

Carry Inspected Watches: All interurban employees must now have their watches inspected the same as other railroad men, and the order which requires them to do this has recently been issued by Superintendent Nutt. It is known that the variation of the different watches carried by interurban employees is likely to cause trouble and this method will avoid possible mistakes.

KING ASSUMES ROYAL RIGHTS

King Edward Takes Upon Himself Choosing of the New English Cabinet.

HE USES JUDGMENT

Breaks Away From Traditions, and Holds His Privilege of Vote on Cabinet.

London, Sept. 21.—The political crisis has taken on a phase which lends to the present situation a historical and constitutional importance of almost unprecedented interest. The king has interfered—not unconstitutional or beyond the powers vested in the crown, but in the exercise of his prerogatives—to an extent never dreamed of in the Victorian era.

Premier Balfour's continued presence at Balmoral has given rise to much surmise and comment. It is now stated that the premier's presence is due to the king's determination not to assent to the formation of a new cabinet until thoroughly satisfied that its personnel and combination are such as to insure the efficient carrying on of the affairs of the empire pending the resumption of parliament.

Edward Takes a Hand. For years previous cabinets were formed or ministerial vacancies filled with the mere formal presentation to the sovereign of the names of the new ministers. King Edward has done away with this tradition. He has spent the last few days in constant discussion with Mr. Balfour as to the advisability from the point of view of the national welfare of the latter's suggested appointments.

Ministers now holding office and those nominated for office have been summoned to Balmoral to join in these conferences, and all have been subjected to a degree of interrogation such as has surprised even those who knew King Edward intimately as

WONDERFUL SIGHTS ON TOP OF A BIG JAPANESE VOLCANO

MR. HIBBARD TELLS OF SIGHTS NOT OFTEN SEEN.

SPENT THE NIGHT UP THERE

Wonderful Views Well Described by That Gentleman in His Last Letter.

Mr. Hibbard writes from far off Japan of a new experience of his in mountain climbing and the magnificent scenery which he saw in a journey. His letter on this interesting subject follows:

I am just back from a climb up Mt Asama and while it is all fresh in my mind I want to tell you about it. Missionaries are quite as likely to have opinions and to support them as any class of people I have ever met. This is usually a very good characteristic but when as in this case, the opinions are widely varied, it is a bit confusing. Many people have climbed Asama during the years that Karizawa has been frequented as a summer resort, and so far as my knowledge goes everyone has some decided opinion as to the best time, season, and manner of accomplishing the achievement. After much "sodan", to use a very valuable Japanese word, we finally settled the preliminaries and at 9:30 in the morning we were underway. Most of the party had saddle horses of the native variety each led by a "betto" or native horseman. I chose however, to be my own saddle horse, packhorse, and squire. Each one was provided with lunch, waterbottles, and blankets. After an hour the little procession wound into the hills from the plain about Karizawa and we began to climb. The soil is of volcanic origin and just under the surface consists of a kind of volcanic gravel very light. Just before noon we reached a large spring running out of the mountain side and for perhaps 50 yards down the ravine where the whole stream disappeared in the loose gravel again. The water was most deliciously cold and as we knew that we should see no more until our return we drank heartily. From the spring the road mounted rapidly and soon the plain from which we had come spread out in great stretches bounded by the jagged volcanic peaks which here and there thrust out a great jagged spur into the plain. Suddenly as we rounded a turn we met a strange little cavern. In the van was a native pony, with the usual betto, and on his back was a kind of double seated pack saddle. On one side in a chair like contrivance sat his better half. As the horse waddled along over the rough roads the chairs and their occupants swayed and rocked perilously but I fancy it was much more luxurious than any wheeled vehicle could be on such a road. Behind followed other horses and servants. Another hour of climbing brought us to a high plain at the foot of Koasama, Little Asama, and beyond to the north there spread out before us the great stretch of country devastated by the last great eruption of the volcano. For miles this barren lava field stretched out to the north and to the west close before us rose old Asama in lonely majesty. For a little way up the side there were to be seen struggling scrub pine but above these the steep slope rose into the clouds brown and barren. We stopped for dinner and after dinner leaving the horses renewed the climb. We had proceeded scarcely a mile farther when one of the ladies of the party affected by the high altitude together with the steep climb had to return. The rest of us proceeded slowly knowing that if we had a long climb ahead of us, soon the other lady of the party was glad to accept aid and as we mounted steadily into the cloud we were all glad for frequent pauses. At a little after 5 we reached the summit.

Sulphur Fumes

As we came up to the leeward side of the mountain the sulphur fumes continually rolling down upon us made us glad to wet our kerchiefs and inhale through them. We scrambled as fast as the precarious footing of cinders and loose rock would permit around the northern side of the crater towards the windward side of the mountain. As we passed opposite the lowest side of the crater we crossed the source of the lava stream and all about the loose cinders were cut up by flying stones showing the effects of eruptions taking place since the last rain. As there is absolutely no knowing when this shower of stones is to take place we hurried on. At the crater's edge we paused to look down into the great depths where as it cleared from time to time we could look far down into the heart of the mountain and see jets of steam and sulphurous fumes as they were thrown out. Even as we stood looking over the whole cavern was filled with black smoke and warned by the flight of the guides we too took to our heels. Fortunately the discharge consisted of merely of smoke and cinders so that we were unharmed though the column of smoke mounted 1000 feet above our heads. As we moved on to the west a second eruption more magnificent than the first came rolling up so close that the clouds held back to the crater's edge by the wind were actually within 15 feet of us. As we had the advantage of the wind and the highest side of the crater here we felt almost comparatively safe and lingered a little while but my curiosity was soon satisfied and I was led to slip down to a crevice in one of the old craters where there was shelter from any ordinary danger. As it was cloudy and we had no good view Gleason and I decided to spend the night on the mountain and await the sunrise in the hope of better weather. One of the coolies showed us where we could get snow to cool our water bottles and we made a hearty meal. As it was already quite dark those of the party who were not to remain over night at once started down the mountain and left us to spread our blankets for the night. We were all in a shiver with the cold and the man who remained with us had no blanket or wrap of any kind. Through his chattering teeth he was muttering "samui", "samui" so when George and I had crawled into the blankets we asked him to join us. The poor chap was very grateful and though he had a most abominable snore I was right glad to have the warmth of his body at my back.

It was very still and solemn as the darkness fell and when in the course of an hour or so the clouds broke and the stars came out of them seemed so near that one could almost reach out to them. The star set dome of the sky brought more reference to by soul than ever came from any church and I was not surprised when after our evening devotions George asked the man if he ever prayed and he said that every day he prayed. There was something in the very atmosphere of the place that compelled religious thought. Among the uneducated country people Buddhism probably has as strong a hold as it ever had except for the individuals that have been reached by direct Christian influence. Crude and imperfect though it is as a religion and without the living force and power of Christianity I have only respect for its devotees among the lower classes and indeed for all its sincere devotees in all classes but it is harder to make allowances for the people who have been educated away from it and in their new found wisdom hold themselves superior to all religious thought and system.

At Midnight

About midnight we were awakened by the deep rumble of the crater and great mass of smoke clearly defined in the light of the risen moon rose high into the air. Even as we listened we could hear a sound distinct from the roar of the escaping cloud of ashes and gases a sound which puzzled us at the time for it was like the flapping of a sail against the mast. After a couple hours more of sleep I was awakened by footsteps and starting up saw a man walking up the bottom of the crevice where we were asleep. He proved to be one of a large party and when they had all arrived we climbed again to the edge of the crater to see if possible the internal fires of the mountain. We were fully rewarded for the effort for as we crept up the edge and looked down into the great depths there hundreds of feet below us we could see the red hot rocks and molten lava in great patches over the bottom of the crater. Magnificent and awful as was the sight my curiosity was soon gratified to the full and when some of the party stumbled upon the explanation of the strange noise of the right I was satisfied to slip back to the old crater and wait for the surprise. The cause of sound found in the fact that during the small eruption which took place during the night great chunks of rock had been hurled forth and striking in the soft cinder surface of the mountain had made the peculiar clapping sound which we had been puzzled by. These rocks some of which were as large as one's head were still too hot to hold three or four hours after they had been hurled forth.

I suppose many hundred people have visited the crater in the last few years and no one has ever been injured but as for myself I have no passion to make myself a target for one of nature's gatting guns unnecessarily and I think I shall not go up to the crater again.

As we looked out from the mountain in the moonlight the clouds were spread below us like a great white forest and here and there in the distance one of the higher mountains reared its head dark above the great white mass of clouds. At first the place of the sunrise was marked by the faintest tint of gold but as we sat and watched long rays shot up across the sky and orange, yellow, green, and blue of the colors came out until just before the disk of the sun came up the upper sky was rich with purple. While we waited for the appearance of the sun here and there in the foreground great jets of cloud shot up from the mass below and sailed away and then a great cavern opened and looking down into such a pit it had the blackness of a thunder cloud. Twenty feet in front of were we sat the ground sloped away so rapidly that it appeared a sheer precipice and we looked down into the cloud with nothing between. Finally the sun shot up and the whole scene was a glow instantly. The beauty of it all beggar's description but it was a scene that will never be forgotten.

SMOKE NUISANCE IS IN STATU QUO

No New Complaints Have Been Received, and Committee Has Taken No Action.

Nothing has yet been done by the committee appointed at the last meeting of the city council to investigate the smoke nuisance. The only complaint received was made against a laundry on Main street at the time the committee was appointed. Dr. Mills, one of the members, has gone to New York city and will be absent several weeks. Dr. Judd, chairman of the committee, says that the members will be glad to entertain any suggestions that citizens have to make in the matter.

HENRY CLEWS ON THE SITUATION

NOTED NEW YORK STOCKMAN'S WEEKLY LETTER.

AFFAIRS LOOK PROSPEROUS

He Believes the Farmers in the South and West Will Make Much Money.

The events of the week have not been of a particularly encouraging character. Damage to crops in the northwest, and fears that the Balkan crisis might cause disturbing complications in Europe started a fresh selling movement, checking a revival of confidence and precipitating a partial return of recent liquidation. A portion of the selling was attributed to the closing out of accounts which were tilted over the last heavy break; while the bear attacks were further stimulated by unfavorable developments connected with some of the larger industrials, also the lower prices of iron which those pessimistically inclined profess to believe are indicative of business reaction. These are the only new developments in an otherwise sound situation, and to them alone is due the irregularities of the week just ended.

The passenger engineers on the St. Paul road are attempting to outdo one another in a contest to determine which locomotive on the line shall have the most diabolical whistle. A "fierce" one constructed of four pipes by Brakeman Waldo Lutzinger has recently been installed on locomotive 803 which hauls the Milwaukee passenger.

John H. Falter, night switch engineer, went to Milwaukee this morning.

Cashier Conger of the freight office is laying off. Cashier Kulling of Shullsburg is taking his place.

Fireman Veale has returned to his run. William Goke of Platteville has been relieving him.

George Schoeffel, formerly captain of the Milwaukee Light Horse squadron, has been selected head of the police department of the Erie road and will effect a reorganization at once. Rules governing police departments in large municipalities will be used.

A new mileage book good on road entering Milwaukee, which will make travelling practically two cents a mile, will be inaugurated Nov. 1. The book costs $60, with a rebate of $16.50 after being used and not transferred.

Seventeen new freight engines of the class B-4 type and nine Atlantic standard compound engines for the Milwaukee road are being received in Milwaukee this week.

The Wisconsin Central road has denied the report that the line will establish a suburban system of trains in and out of Chicago.

Several hundred young women left Chicago yesterday on Lake Shore and Michigan Central trains to be present at the opening of the various colleges and seminaries in the east. The train on the Lake Shore leaving Chicago at 10:30 carried twelve sleeping cars which were occupied for the most part by young women students and the Michigan Central reported greatly increased traffic from the same source. The exodus of students eastward is expected to continue until the end of the week.

The new car ferry of the Grand Trunk railroad, the Grand Haven, arrived in Milwaukee yesterday on its initial trip from Detroit to that city. President E. G. Crosby of the ferry company and Assistant General Passenger Agent Vaux, Mr. Cookson, and other Grand Trunk officials made the trip. The date on which the ferry will make its initial trip between Milwaukee and Grand Haven has not been decided, the slip at Grand Haven not being completed. The ferry will carry passengers and freight and will connect the Detroit and Milwaukee division of the Grand Trunk with the Northwestern, St. Paul, and Wisconsin Central railroads at Milwaukee.

Local Markets

The immediate future of the local market appears somewhat uncertain.

There is no cause whatever for loss of confidence in the undertone; but the current drift of prices is not as decidedly upwards as intrinsic conditions warrant. Reports of railroads and industrial corporations show the effect of increased operating expenses. This does not mean any change in dividend rates, and will probably result in nothing more than diminished expenditures for improvements. It indicates, however, as in the iron trade, the turn of the tide; and any curtailment in expenditures by the railroads whose outlays have had much to do with the rush in the iron trade has consequences far-reaching and important. Present prices are amply discounting these revelations; but as they come out they are apt to start fresh selling movements in the present sensitive condition of the stock market. While there is no reason for discouragement operations for the rise should be conducted with particular discrimination and limited to securities that are unquestionably selling below intrinsic values. Both money and stocks are at or near a 5 per cent basis which should give the latter a preference to investment holders.

THAT

Annual Shipment of the Galbraith Company Have Arrived in the City.

Fifty-two inches is the height of the smallest of the horses that Mr. Galbraith brought back with him from Scotland. It is a full grown Hackney pony and has won numerous prizes at Scotland horse shows and fairs. The equino that goes to the other extreme in the lot is a brown Clydesdale which is a beautiful specimen tipping the scales at about two thousand pounds. This stallion won the championship in Scotland over all ages in the largest show ever held. The name of the animal is "Sir Christopher." Of the twenty-eight horses that were brought to Janesville, fifteen of them are Clydesdales, four Hackneys and the remainder Shire horses and a number of the heaviest average nearly a ton.

The steamer which brought the animals to America was bound for Montreal and at that city the lot was divided, the number mentioned comprising here, sixteen were shipped to Brandon, Manitoba, where the branch establishment of the company is located, and one Welsh pony was express direct to a lady in Philadelphia.

Last year when the horses that were purchased abroad were brought to this country, five died en route so this season the animals were insured but they stood the journey in good condition. The passage this summer was more disagreeable than last for much rough weather was met with during the voyage.

The total value of the animals is in the neighborhood of $65,000. One of the assistants at the barns went to Scotland and accompanied the equines to their new home. Other help was necessary, however, for a large amount of work is involved in the caring for such a number of horses under the circumstances.

Expensive Apples: Four well known men of this city went apple gathering recently and loaded their wagon out of the orchard of P. Rudolph's farm

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Thursday, Sept. 24, 1863.—Our streets presented a lively appearance this morning, with the preparations for the trial at the fair grounds. The attendance of visitors was large, though the unfavorable change in the weather undoubtedly kept many away. At the meetings to arrange preliminaries the following persons were chosen judges: W. Gennett, Mendota No. 1, Madison; — Beattner Washington No. 8, Milwaukee; W. Hodgson, Water Witch No. 1, Beloit; D. D. Johnson, Ever Ready No. 2, Beloit; T. F. Little, Fountain City No. 2, Fond du Lac; — Torrent No. 3, Freeport, Ill.; Wm. D. Birt, chief engineer of Janesville fire department, Wm. Henning, foreman engine company No. 2, and M. H. Curtis, foreman of No. 3, Janesville, were appointed a committee on measurement.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 23.—Special to the Chicago Tribune.—The following was received by the governor this afternoon:

Chattanooga, Sept. 22.
To Edward Salomon, Governor of Wisconsin:

The 1st and 21st Wisconsin volunteers have been engaged for the past two days. They fought bravely and without flinching. All did their duty. My losses in officers and men are very heavy.

(Signed) John C. Starkweather,
Brigadier General.

New York, Sept. 24.—The Tribune's Washington correspondent says, letters from Europe contradict the rumor that the provisional government of Mexico sent a special agent to Richmond to establish friendly relations. The pretended departure of vice president Stephens to bargain Texas and Louisiana for armed intervention of France is a canard. Gen. Forey will resume operations against the remaining forces at the end of the rainy season, and expects to dispose of them easily. A considerable number of French officers have been appointed in the army of Mexican soldiers, and 30,000 uniforms and stands of arms have been forwarded from France. The French government possesses the acceptance of the crown by Maximilian is a settled fact.

No credit is to be given to rumors of the recognition of the south by France. The French government positively disclaimed any such intention, and the subject has never been introduced in cabinet.

Dane County Copperhead Nominations.—The democrats in the western senatorial district of Dane county have nominated Frank Gault, an infidel copperhead, George Hyer, the senior editor of the Madison Patriot, was a candidate for the nomination, but he was thrown overboard because in an extreme case where policy required it, he detached a vote or two last winter in the legislature from the mass of his votes in opposition to the war! It is only in doubtful or clearly republican localities where a democrat of any approach to loyal views can be thought of for a nomination. The same party have nominated Sanborn the man who declared "slavery was a part of deity itself," for re-election to the assembly.

CROP REPORTS ARE VERY GOOD

Milwaukee Weather Office Says That Prospects Are Most Bright for the Harvest.

The general tone of reports received from correspondents this week indicates that a decidedly more hopeful feeling prevails, especially in regard to the final outcome of the corn crop. Heavy to excessive rains occurred early in the week along the western border of the state thoroughly saturating the already wet grain in stack and shock and further delaying threshing. Unthreshed grain, of which there is considerable, is in very bad condition, and even with dry weather will yield but a small percentage of marketable grain. Decidedly cool weather was experienced Thursday and Friday, with general frosts. In some localities in the northern and central counties the temperature fell below the freezing point and ice formed to the thickness of an eighth of an inch, but taking the state as a whole, the damage was comparative' ly slight.

Corn.

The cool wave passed with rather less damage to the corn crop than was anticipated. On lands and particularly exposed localities the damage was considerable, but much the larger portion of the crop was uninjured by the frost of Thursday and Friday mornings. The cool weather however, retarded maturity, and the bulk of the crop still requires a week or ten days to place it beyond danger from frost. Early plantings on high, well drained land are nearing maturity and some cutting has been done. The soft condition of the soil renders it very difficult to use machinery, and considerable cutting is being done by hand. The past few days have been very favorable, and should the warm, dry weather continue for ten days the corn crop harvested in this state would be but little below a normal crop.

Potatoes.

Reports received this week in regard to potatoes are discouraging in the extreme. The blight and rot continue to increase. A number of correspondents who have heretofore reported the crop in good condition now state that rotting has commenced. Some fields have been harvested but the yield is very unsatisfactory.

Tobacco.

The crop is practically all harvested and shredded. A few localities report that harvest has been delayed but will be finished during the ensuing week. The crop is very large and of excellent quality but cures slowly on account of the wet weather.

Minor Crops.

Buckwheat harvest is completed, and although the crop has not been large, the yield is very satisfactory. A large and excellent crop of sugar beets has been secured. Second crop clover will be a heavy yield, but on account of the wet condition of the fields harvesting is backward, while the seed in some localities is poor. Pastures are in splendid condition.

Fruit.

Apples are a comparatively light crop but the quality is good. Cranberries are a light crop, and will be somewhat below the normal although the quality is up to standard.

Southern Section.

Monroe, Green county: Corn is nearly matured and excepting very late plantings is a good crop, and much better than the crop of last year.—J. Luchsinger.

Shullsburg, Lafayette county: A week of warm weather will place corn practically out of danger; late potatoes rotting on low grounds—H. B. Chamberlain.

Afton, Rock county: No serious damage by frost, corn cutting begun, a few acres of tobacco yet to be harvested light frost Thursday night.—G. G. Weile.

Paul, Dane county: Corn sufficiently advanced to be almost secure

WOULD ADVERTISE THEIR CHURCHES

Milwaukee Pastors Think Plan to Advertise Meetings Would Increase the Attendance.

Many Milwaukee pastors are in favor of using the methods of the business man in attracting attention to their churches says a Milwaukee dispatch. A number who were interviewed say that the time has arrived when if the church is to go forward it must adopt up-to-date advertising methods. Those favoring this proposition include Rev. Judson Titworth of Plymouth Congregational church, Dr. S. P. Young of Summerfield and Dr. Cox of Kingsley Methodist churches.

Mr. Titworth said that he would like to have a transparency in front of his church which would tell of what was doing there. Dr. Cox said that the question of advertising as a help to the church would come up before the Los Angeles general conference. It was discussed, informally, he said, at the recent Green Bay conference and many of the ministers favored the establishment of a press bureau for the purpose of giving publicity to church matters. Dr. Young was heartily in favor of new methods, including a press bureau or some other method of publicity and promotion.

HORSE KILLED BY INTERURBAN

Was Run Down by Car "Rockford"
Near Happy Hollow, Last Evening.

A horse was killed by an interurban car near Happy Hollow last evening. The animal was hitched to a buggy and had apparently broken loose from some place and wandered down the road. The shafts of the buggy were broken but the rig was not otherwise smashed. The headlight of the car was smashed but no other damage done as the car was slackened considerably before the collision occurred. The owner of the animal could not be found although a thorough search was made. "Rockford" was the car that encountered the horse and the collision occurred on the 10:15 trip.

BOYS FORMED A NEW STUDY CLUB

The Sunday School Class of Rev. J. T. Henderson Have Organized.

The Rev. J. T. Henderson's Sunday school class at their last meeting, formed a permanent organization and will hold regular meetings throughout the winter. The class has been in existence for about a year and the more complete organization is made that further and more varied work may be done. The initial meeting was held Tuesday evening at Mr. Henderson's residence and the fourteen charter members who were present named the society and elected officers. The organization will be known as the Westminster club and the following boys were elected at leaders: President, Robert Jensen; vice president, Walter Apols, secretary and treasurer, Jerome Davis. The plan of the society is to carry on literary work and discussions and the boys will meet twice a month at Mr. Henderson's residence.

Needed Aid
It is understood that the darky was unable to remain at the university another year unless some "object" were held out to him and the athletic management has found a way of paying him to stay. Two other track men are to be maintained in the same way. It is said this means a "clever" scheme for the managers at Madison to encourage their athletes to stay, without actually hiring them to take part in athletics. Again it is understood that a number of football men will be maintained at the university during the spring term, by being paid well for assisting in the training of the track candidates and crew men.

Would Cripple Team

It would seriously cripple Wisconsin on the track were George Poage to leave. He graduated from the civic historical course in June last and did not intend to return to the university. He was however eligible to complete another year and the management has induced him to come back and work a little while each day in the football training quarters. The matter has never been approved by the faculty or athletic council. The expense goes in as necessary expenditure in training.

TROUBLE FOR THE WISCONSIN TEAM

Charges Are Made That Wisconsin's Crack Sprinter, George Poage Is Being Supported by School.

On the heels of the announcement that amateurism in athletics will be most strictly observed at Wisconsin, comes the discovery that John C. Poage, of La Crosse, the crack colored sprinter of the Wisconsin team, is being supported by the athletic management sufficiently to be able to remain at the university, the purpose being to have him available for the track team again next spring.

He is nominally employed in the foot ball training quarters, rubbing the children candidates and looking after the properties.

WISCONSIN IS BADLY CRIPPLED

Ten of the Badger Football Squad Are Out of Practice, Owing to Injuries.

On account of the lameness of a number of football candidates, there were ten less men out for practice on the Wisconsin campus Wednesday afternoon. The squad numbered only forty, while there were fifty the night before. Findlay was laid up because he had strained himself lifting furniture. Roy Chamberlain, a former star guard of the varsity eleven, was out in uniform and football armor for a short time. He did little work, making an easy start of the season.

The first scrimmage of the season still failed to come. Coach Curtis gave the men considerable practice in punting, running down the field after kicks and tackling the dummy. The day was cooler for practice than for nearly a week, and the result the society is to carry on the literary work on the part of the men. Earl Schreiber and Earl Driver were out in uniforms, assisting the coaches with new candidates. Bush and Vanderboom is in the city. Capt. Abbott will leave Friday on a trip to Chicago. He goes on business relating to the football team.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Galbraith have returned from an extended trip in England and Scotland.

Buffalo, Sept. 24.—The industrial center of the village of Gardenville was destroyed by fire. The buildings burned included Schoepflin's chair factory, powerhouse, foundry and offices and the Gardenville postoffice. The loss is estimated at $30,000, covered by insurance.

REV. RICHARD BOLAND

LETTER WRITTEN FOR THE BENEFIT OF OTHERS.

Rev. Richard Boland, rector of St. Michael's parish, Lowell, Mass., writes as follows: "Father John's Medicine is unequalled as a preventative of bronchial and lung diseases which have been working such terrible havoc in our climate. We have used ourselves and find it most beneficial in cases of prolonged coughs and bronchial irritations. Its use renders the voice flexible and pleasant, and it is for this reason invaluable to all public speakers."

BY A KENTUCKY DOCTOR.

Dr. L. A. Crimian, of Stanley, says: "My sister is past 82 years old, and she gets about like a young person rather than one so old, since taking Father John's Medicine which has done her so much good. I shall recommend to the other physicians in this section." (Signed) L. A. Crimian, M. D. Cures colds, throat and lung troubles; makes flesh and builds up the body—not a patent medicine. Green Bay Gazette: While we are deplored the killing of people by the unspeakable Turk it might be recalled that the deadly automobile is doing a little work along the same line.

Eau Claire Leader: It is a pity, but it none the less true, that there is no administration without its portion of "graft" and a scandal, but never was an administration which laid the ax to the root of its scandals with the energy displayed by President Roosevelt.

Madison Democrat: Nothing is truer in a broad sense, than the opinion expressed by an exchange that the really honest and honorable man is always found in three places at times when he is needed there—in his home, in his business office and at the polls.

Milwaukee Sentinel: And it is no more than fair to Miss Golet to say that it was not the Duke of Roxburgh, but only his title that she bought.

Milwaukee News: The navy department has officially adopted "The Star Spangled Banner" as the national anthem. "A Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight," however, will continue to be heard after the sun goes down.

Evening Wisconsin: It must be admitted that state affairs in which the exhibits are not the fundamental attraction are of little use and do not justify the appropriation of money raised by the taxation to maintain them. That a fair serves as a convenient rendezvous for politicians is of no consequence to the people at large. But the state fair in which the exhibits are not the fundamental attraction are hollow imitations—not the real thing.

New York Herald: Spanish national 4 per cent bonds closed in London yesterday at 90 1/4, being higher than British consols, which were 89 3/16. While we were at war with Spain her bonds were below 30 when British consols were 112. Spain lost her colonies and her bonds have trebled in value. Britain has acquired the territory of the South African republics, and her premier security has had a severe fall. The facts are suggestive.

IF EDITORS TOLD NO LIES
Newspaper.com says, if editors told no lies, what an uncomfortable world this would be for some people to live in, and then reproduces the following spicy production from an Iowa exchange.

"It has been said that editors use the whitewash brush in obituaries and dare not tell the truth about the dead or the living. This is not a fact, the editor simply wants to make the living feel as good as he can and assuage grief by taffy. Occasionally we are willing to tell things just as they are in detail. How will the following do for a starter?"

"Died, Thomas P. Rowell, aged 29 years six months and 13 days. Deceased was a red-headed son-of-a-gun who stole chickens and had a whisky nose on him. He owed Lewis for the clothes he was buried in and Treganza had to get the cost of the casket out of the county. Deceased was a mild-mannered pirate, with a mouth for whisky and an eye for boodle. He came here in the night with another man's wife and joined the church at the first chance. He owed us several dollars for the paper, a large meat bill, and you could hear him pray six blocks. He died singing 'Jesus Paid It All,' and we think he is right, as he never paid anything himself. He was buried in an asbestos-lined casket, and his many friends threw palm-leaf fans in the grave, as they may need them. His tombstone will be a favorite roosting place for hell-divers and hoot-owls. Let him R. I. P. (rest in peace.)

"Born to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bloomberg, a son weighing ten pounds. This one has two legs, and, fortunately, hasn't hare lip or bat eyes. This is the tenth one now living, if none of them have starved to death since our last issue. Joe hasn't done a day's work for three years, unless forced to by the neighbors, who are now taking care of his wife. He owes every man in town and is universally detested. Mother and child are doing well as could be expected."

"Married at the home of the bride's parents, John Hogan to Miss Matilda Bottleson. The bride was beautifully attired in a green basque with yellow skirt to match caught over a blue denim petticoat with passementerie trimming, a red jacket to correspond with her eyes and hair, a blue hat with a red feather white shoes and black stockings. The groom wore the conventional ducking overalls with waistband to match a straw hat and kid gloves. They were married in the kitchen of the paternal home, which is 14x18, one story, twelve foot posts with lean to on stone foundation, no exposures within twenty feet. The fitter played an overture on the hose cart bell as they passed under a bridal arch of sunflowers and holly hocks. John had not money enough to hire a minister, so he had a justice of the peace come in and marry them, and worked out his road tax for pay. The groom is a knock-kneed, pigeon-toed fellow, who drifted in here at the hobo convention. He has never been in state's prison—we don't know why. One of his legs is longer than the other, and his eyes don't match. He chews smokes and fiddles for dances. He is well liked in society. The happy bride was born of honest but well meaning parents, and could walk alone at six months; at ten she could run real fast; and has never shacked her gait. She has many friends—most of them dead ones. The happy couple took a bridal trip to Wesley, and will then be at home with the old man until they are kicked out. The Tribune wishes them long life and happiness."

A SPIRIT OF ENTERPRISE.

The Gazette is pleased to acknowledge the fact that the banks of the city have decided to advertise their business. Pleased for two reasons, first, because of increased revenue in the counting room, and second, and of vastly greater importance, because of the benefits that will accrue to the city.

A town is judged by the enterprise of its business men, and there is no class of business that represents financial stability so thoroughly as the banks.

The Gazette like all other wide awake newspapers, is scattered throughout the country. It is on file in all of the advertising agency offices, and is in the hands of many of the large advertisers of the country.

Wherever it goes out it is the representative of the city, and when its columns are filled with announcements of business enterprises, it speaks volumes for the city. This is the public spirited side of the question and it is worth considering by every business and professional man who takes any pride in the city that supports him.

A man in California picks up a Janesville paper and glancing over it says, there don't seem to be a bank in the town or a hardware store. The people appear to have good teeth and good stomachs, for there's nothing to show that there's a doctor or a dentist in the place and they are certainly a peaceable lot of citizens if the layers are not in evidence.

This is not a very flattering comment, and yet it represents the judgment that any man would pass upon the place using the paper as a standard.

Of course the professional brother, and especially the dentist and the doctor wraps himself up in a cloak of professional ethics and marvels at the brazen effrontry of men who dare to pay for a modest card in the paper. These men would run a mile and tear their shirt to let the paper know that they had been called out of town but that of course is news, in which the patient public is supposed to be interested.

All sarcasm aside, this talk about professional ethics is the essence of nonsense, and the stumbling block that has wrecked many a young man before he got on his feet. It is well to have the good opinion of brothers in the profession, but it ain't worth a hoot in Denmark for business.

The doctor practices on the public and net on the profession and the dentist who pulls a tooth for his brother dentist charges the bill to the town pump and looks to the outside world for the victims who pay the freight.

If you have anything to sell in the way of service, and that's what the professional man deals in, put your shingle in a good, live newspaper for a year, and let the general public know that you have been resurrected from the tomb of ethics. If you haven't any confidence in the investment, do it for the good of the town.

The Gazette receives every day, every newspaper in the state of any importance, as well as many from other states; there isn't a wide-awake city anywhere the size of Janesville where professional men hide their talents under the bushel of ethics.

The Gazette is not poverty stricken and this is not a plea for business. That belongs to the advertising department. The paper is interested in the prosperity of the town, as well as in the prosperity of every man engaged in business. It has something to offer in the way of publicity that is a benefit to the town and it gives value received for every dollar invested in its advertising columns.

The paper believes that every line of business can be benefited by publicity and it is certain of the fact that the town can be wonderfully aided by liberal advertising on the part of its business men.

The Salvation army post in Janesville is entitled to better support than it is necessary. Each post is supposed to be self supporting and the captains are allowed $10.00 per week for services, providing that amount of money is received, most of these captains are married, and the salary is barely enough to meet expenses. The receipts of the Janesville post last week were only $5.25 and the out look for these faithful workers is not encouraging. They are doing good work along neglected lines and entitled to every encouragement.

Carroll D. Wright, who is at the head of the U. S. Bureau of Labor, and who is recognized as authority on statistics, takes governor La Follette to account for saying that wages have advanced but 15 per cent, while the cost of living has nearly doubled that amount. Mr. Wright says that figures show the advance to be about equal and is surprised that the governor of an intelligent state, should make such a statement.

The great lakes are being so thoroughly bridged by ear ferries at the present time that water is no longer an obstruction to rapid transit. A new line is just being put in between Milwaukee and Grand Haven each boat capable of carrying a train of 32 cars. A similar line has been operating between Manitowoc and Ludington for a number of years.

Senator Whitehead and Senator Hatten agree on the question of legislative organization in 1901. Senator McGillivray appears to be trotting in a class by himself. Public opinion will endorse the statement of the former, while the latter will cause no particular disturbance.

The Jackson club are quite busy with a candidate who was so thoroughly impressed with the first degree that he proposes to take the full course. The club has discovered the requisites for running a democratic newspaper the information being furnished by the candidate who has had some newspaper experience.

The business men should turn out tonight and encourage the new factory enterprise. There is plenty of room in the city for more industries and every one secured, is a direct benefit to the business income to the city.

The busiest man in the state is the chief executive. He is acting as the self appointed guardian of humanity and has undertaken a large contract.

For the sake of poor suffering man kind let it be known that dress makers do not worry about the bills it is the men who do that.

Smoke in Janesville is becoming almost as much a nuisance as it was and is in Chicago.

China will as soon move from Manchuria as the wily Turk will grant the Christians in his domains freedom of thought.

Football accidents have already begun and now the only cure seems to be the intervention of parents.

It is pleasing to know that Sir Thomas has gotten over his little stomach ache so far that he is able to take a ride in the Chicago parks.

Cardinal Gibbons says that Pope Pius is a first class sort of a man and that he firmly believes in and thoroughly understands America.

Good corn weather will rejoice all the farmers and from the samples of the Rock county product it would appear that this section of the state will have an abundance.

A BANNER DAY AT HOHENADEL'S

110,000 CANS OF CORN ON WEDNESDAY.

CABBAGE CROP IS COMING IN

First of the Harvest Gathered This Week—Bulk of Cucumbers Not Yet Picked.

Wednesday was expected to be the banner day of the season at the Hohenadel cannery factory. Plans had been made to turn out just 110,000 cans of sugar corn. At five o'clock the car that had contained 90,000 empty cans was all but empty, and the work went forward until the clock struck ten last evening.

Two Million Cans

The work with the corn will not be finished for about two weeks, and the long caravan of wagons bringing in the harvest shows as yet no sign of diminution. When the big kettles are finally emptied, at a conservative estimate, over two million cans will have been placed upon the market.

A Mile of Corn

About three cans in every thousand have to be thrown out owing to "blind" holes and otherwise faulty construction. When the average runs higher the can-manufacturers have to pay for the waste. But even taking into consideration the loss if the season's output was placed in a single line, it would reach over 10 miles! The company has 1,600 acres of corn under contract, 700 acres of cucumbers, and 500 acres of cabbages. On one of the roads leading to the factory there is an unbroken mile of corn raised under contract for the cannery.

Large Pickle Output

Although the cucumber crop has not been a good one this year the Hohenadel Co. has many more acres under contract than formerly and the output of pickles is expected to be fully as large as that of last year. A considerable quantity of the cucumbers are already in process but the bulk of the crop is not yet in.

Harvest of Cabbages

There is also good reason to expect a bountiful yield of cabbages. They are just commencing to come in and several carloads have been shipped to the city markets as the factory is not yet in readiness to commence the work of converting them into sauer kraut.

Worth a Visit

The factory is well worth a visit and those who have never done so should take advantage of the opportunity. Among the additions recently made to the equipment is a new labelling machine that handles 30,000 cans a day.

GOLF CONTINUES: MUCH INTEREST

NUMBER OF EVENTS PLANNED FOR NEAR FUTURE

MORE PRIZES ARE OFFERED

The Playing Will Be Kept Up "Till the Snow Flies"—Much Enthusiasm,

In spite of the approaching cold weather, the golf enthusiasts are numerous and the number of events planned for the near future are many. That interest in the game is increasing continually, is the opinion of J. P. Baker.

Lane's Match Next

Some of the new events will be the play for the prize donated by Mr. Wilson Lane, a box of Hartkells. This will be a handicap match between the Benedict's and the qualifying scores must be handed in to Mr. Baker by Monday evening. The first round of match play will be Tuesday. If more than sixteen play, the number of scores allowed will be sixteen and if less than that number appear the limit will be eight.

Two Other Events

H. S. McGiffen has offered a valuable prize to be played for in the near future. This play will be a mixed foursome and much interest is shown in the event. Another series of plays that is also being arranged for, at a future date, is an event for ladies, to be a handicap match for nine holes. For this play two prizes will be offered.

Depends on Weather

As to how late the playing will continue this fall rests mostly with the weather man. Last season the summer air stayed for some weeks later than usual and the crowd on the links kept out as long as the favorable conditions continued.

Men enthusiasts will stay out "till the snow flies," anyway and some of them longer, though not many of the fair sex are seen playing when the winter winds are whistling over the links.

Made in Waterbury

"Thus far the pins have been manufactured for us in the plant of the American Pin company in Waterbury, Conn. In Chicago Butler Bros., Marshall Field, Carson, Pirie, Scott, J. D. Farwell and Lyon Bros. all handle our products. St. Louis merchants also handle them. At present our plant is located at 1829 Randolph street, Chicago."

Many Employees

"We will employ forty to fifty hands at the beginning, the majority of them will be men. Later we will increase our force and I expect that within a year after our starting we have a hundred and fifty hands the year round. All the big jobbing houses in the country are handling our goods and while we have thus far sold as a side line I expect to put out three traveling men to visit the jobbing and big retail trade of the country very soon."

My Strangest Case

BY GUY BOOTHBY.

[Copyrighted, 1901, by Ward, Lock & Co.]

SYNOPSIS.

PART I.—Three rogues, Hayle, Kitwater and Codd, meet at Singapore. Latter two have learned of existence of hidden treasure at Sengkor-Wat-old Burmese ruin near Chinese border. Hayle only half believes account, but nevertheless agrees to join in search.

PART II.—Reaching Sengkor-Wat, the men make their way through the ancient streets and toward the once splendid palace. Toward dusk after the most tedious search, they happen to enter a room under ground vaults, in which are discovered great quantities of bar gold and uncut rubies and sapphires. Hayle kills both hands with gems and the men make their way outside again. On reaching camp they find their two Burmese servants slain and horribly mangled in hideous fashion. In the vaults Hayle seizes treasure and steals away to England.

PART III.—Utterly exhausted and unconscious, Hayle is found by English officers near frontier station of Nampoung. As soon as able he leaves for Hungon and thence to England.

PART IV.—Two months later another officer at Nampoung, while out on a hunt comes across Kitwater and Codd. Kitwater explains they were traders who had fallen into hands of Chinese who had put out their own eyes and pulled out Codd's tongue after treating somewhat from effects of exposure and tortures they set off in pursuit of Hayle.

CHAPTER II.

All business London, and a good many other people besides, must remember the famous United States Empire bank fraud. Bonds had been stolen and negotiated, vast sums of money were discovered to be missing, and the manager and one of the directors were absent also. So cleverly had the affair been worked, and so flaring were the defalcations, that had it not been for the public-spirited behavior and generosity of two of the directors, the position of the bank would have been most seriously compromised, if not shattered altogether. How the culprits had managed to slip through the fingers of the law in the first place no one could say, but the fact remains that they were able to get out of England, without, apparently, leaving a trace of their intentions or their whereabouts behind them. Scotland Yard took the matter up with its usual promptness, and at first were confident of success. They set their cleverest detectives to work upon it, and it was not until more than a month had elapsed that the men engaged were compelled most reluctantly to admit their defeat. They had done their best; it was the system under which they worked that was to blame. In the detection of crime, or in the tracing of a criminal, it is best, as in every other walk of life, to be original.

One morning on arriving at my office I found a letter awaiting me from the remaining directors of the bank, in which they inquired if I could make it convenient to call upon them at the head-office that day. To tell the truth, I had been expecting this summons for nearly a week, and was far from being displeased when it came. The work I had expected them to offer me was after my own heart, and if they would only trust the business to me and give me a free hand, I was prepared on my part to bring the missing gentlemen to justice.

Needless to say, I called upon them at the hour specified, and after a brief wait was conducted to the board room, where the directors sat in solemn conference.

The chairman, Sir Walter Bracebridge, received me on behalf of his colleagues.

"We wrote to you, Mr. Fairfax," he said, "in order to find out whether you could help us concerning the difficulty in which we find ourselves placed. You of course are aware of the serious trouble the bank has experienced, and of the terrible consequences which have resulted therefrom?"

I admitted that I was quite conversant with it, and waited to hear what he would have to say next.

"As a matter of fact," he continued, "we have sent for you to know whether you can offer us any assistance in our hour of difficulty?" Pray take a chair, and let us talk the matter over and see what conclusion we can arrive at."

Seated myself, and we discussed the affair to such good purpose that, when I left the board room, it was on the understanding that I was to take up the case at once, and that my expenses and a very large sum of money should be paid me, provided I could manage to bring the affair to a successful termination.

I spent the remainder of that day at the bank, carefully studying the various memoranda. A great deal of what I had read and heard had been mere hearsay, and this it was necessary to discard in order that the real facts of the case might be taken up, and the proper conclusions drawn therefrom. For three days I weighed the case carefully in my mind, and at the end of that time was in a position to give the board a definite answer to their inquiries. Thereupon I left England, with the result that exactly 12 weeks later the two men, so much wanted, were at Bow street, and I had the proud knowledge of knowing that I had succeeded where the men who had tried before me had so distinctly failed.

As will be remembered, it was a case that interested every class of society, and press and public were alike united in the interest they showed in it. It is not, however, the trial itself as much as another curious circumstance connected with it that has induced me to refer to it here. The case had passed from the magistrate's court to the Old Bailey, and was hourly increasing in interest. Day after day the court was crowded to overflowing, and, when the time came for me to take my place in the witness-box and describe the manner in which I had led up to and effected the capture of the offenders, the excitement rose to fever heat. I can see the whole scene now as if it had occurred but yesterday; the learned judge upon the bench, the jury in their box, the rows of counsels, and the benches full of interested spectators. I gave my evidence and was examined by the counsels for the prosecution and for the defense. I described how I had traced the men from England to their hiding-place abroad, and the various attempts that had been made to prevent their extradition, and had just referred to a certain statement one of the prisoners had made to me soon after his arrest when an interruption caused me to look behind at the rows of spectators. At the further end of the bench, nearest me, were two men; one was evidently tall, the other very short. The taller was the possessor of silvery white hair and a long and venerable beard. He was a handsome-looking man of about 40, and my first glance at him told me that he was blind. As I have said, his companion was a much smaller man, with a smooth, almost boyish face, a pair of twinkling eyes, but a mouth rather hard set. Both were evidently following the case closely, and when on the next day I saw that they were in the same place I took an even greater interest in them than before. It was not, however, until the trial had finished and the pair of miserable men had been sent to penal servitude for a lengthy term of years, that made the acquaintance of the men I have just described. I remember the circumstance quite distinctly, I had left the court and was proceeding down the Old Bailey in the direction of Ludgate Hill, when I heard my name pronounced.

Turning round I discovered to my astonishment the two men I had seen in the court, and who had seemed to take such an interest in the case. The smaller was guiding his friend along the crowded pavement with a dexterity that was plainly the outcome of a long practice. When I stopped, he stopped also, and the blind man addressed me. His voice was deep, and had a note of pathos in it impossible to describe. It may have been that I was a little sad that afternoon, for both the men who had been condemned to penal servitude had wives and children, to whose pitiful condition the learned judge had referred when passing sentence.

"You are Mr. Fairfax, are you not?" inquired the taller of the men.

"That is my name," I admitted, "What can I do for you?"

"If we could persuade you to vouchsafe us an hour of your valuable time we should be more grateful than we could say," the man replied. "We have an important piece of business which it might possibly be to your advantage to take up. At any rate, it would be worthy of your consideration."

"But why have you not come to me before?" I inquired. "You have seen me in court every day. Why do you wait until the case is at an end?"

"Because we wanted to be quite sure of you," he answered. "Our case is so large and of such vital importance to us, that we did not desire to run any risk of losing you. We thought we would wait and familiarize ourselves with all that you have done in this affair before coming to you. Now we are satisfied that we could not place our case in better hands, and what we are anxious to do is to induce you to interest yourself in it and take it up."

"You pay me a very high compliment," I said, "but I cannot give you a decision at once. I must hear what it is that you want me to do and have time to think it over, before I can answer you. That is my invariable rule, and I never depart from it. Do you know my office?"

"We know it perfectly," returned the blind man. "It would be strange if we did not, seeing that we have stood outside it repeatedly, trying to summon up courage to enter. Would it be possible for you to grant us an interview to-night?"

"I fear not," I said. "I am tired, and stand in need of rest. If you care to come to-morrow morning, I shall be very pleased to see you. But you must bear in mind the fact that my time is valuable, and that it is only a certain class of cases that I care to take up personally."

"We are not afraid of our case," the man replied. "I doubt if there has ever been another like it. I fancy you yourself will say so when you hear the evidence I have to offer. It is not us if we were destitute. We are prepared to pay you well for your services, but we must have the very best that England can supply."

My readers must remember that this conversation was being carried on at the corner of Ludgate Hill and the Old Bailey. Curious glances were being thrown at my companions by passers-by, and so vehement were the tall man's utterances becoming that a small crowd was gradually collecting in our neighborhood.

CURES CATARRH

"Hyomel the Most Wonderful Cure for Catarrh Ever Discovered," Says Peoples Drug Co. and King's Pharmacy.

Do not try to cure catarrh by taking drugs into the stomach; it cannot be cured in that manner. The only way in which this too common disease can be cured is through a direct application that will kill the bacilli of catarrh and prevent their growth.

Hyomel is the only known method of treatment that accomplishes this. It is the simplest, most pleasant, and the only absolute cure for catarrh that has ever been discovered.

Thousands of unsolicited testimonials have been received from the most prominent men and women in the country who have been cured by this remarkable remedy. Ministers, bankers, lawyers, even eminent physicians have given strong testimonials as to the remarkable powers of Hyomel to cure catarrh.

The complete Hyomel outfit costs but $1.00, consisting of an inhaler, dropper and sufficient Hyomel to last several weeks. This will effect a cure in ordinary cases, but for chronic and deep-seated cases of catarrh, longer use may be necessary, and then extra bottles of Hyomel can be obtained for 50 c. It is not alone the best (it might be called the only) method of curing catarrh, but it is also the most economical.

King's Pharmacy and Peoples' Drug Co. have so much confidence in the power of Hyomel to cure catarrh, that they will for a limited time, sell this medicine under their personal guarantee to refund the money if the purchasers can say that it did not help them.

Andrew Robson who is starring in Winston Churchill's "Richard Carvel" is said to be endowed with a splendid stage presence, a handsome face an excellent voice, and more than this to be possessed of a marked degree with personal magnetism, that quality so rarely possessed yet so essential to every actor. This is the third season that Mr. Robson has starred in "Richard Carvel" and he is generally regarded both by critics and laymen as being one of the most promising native born actors.

The chief love interest in the dramatization of the well known New England novel, "Quincy Adams Sawyer", is the strong admiration of young Sawyer, the city fellow and son of a millionaire, for Alice Pettengill, a blind girl. It was a good deal of a question when the dramatization was made as to whether the public would be in sympathy with such peculiar courtship, and the dramatist seriously thought of getting away from the book in this respect by having Sawyer in love with Lindy Putnam. It was finally decided, however, to follow the book, and

SHAW STRIKES MONEY BROKERS

UPSET THE CIRCULATION FONDS

Has $30,000,000 at His Command With Which to Relieve Any Stringency That May Occur in the Financial Field—Funds to Move Crops.

Washington, Sept. 24.—Secretary Shaw took the financial world by surprise and frustrated the plans of Wall street-brokers who have been engaged in forcing up the price of 2 per cent bonds, and who are responsible for the banks retiring a large amount of circulation, thus making money scarce and increasing the interest rates.

Without warning Secretary Shaw announced that he had decided to resume refunding operations for the purpose of preventing financial stringency and to furnish a supply of currency which will enable the commercial world to secure money at reasonable rates to carry on business operations. Owning to the scarcity of 2 per cent bonds, both for circulation and the security of the government deposits, he will resume refunding operations to the extent of $20,000,000 and he will redeem the 5 per cent bonds maturing Feb. 1, 1904, paying the interest to maturity.

Increases Circulation.

The effect of this action will be to place in circulation about $10,000,000, which, in the opinion of treasury officials, will prevent money stringency during the crop moving season. The total value of the 5 per cent bonds in the hands of owners is approximately $20,000,000, and this, together with the refunding of $20,000,000 in 2 per cents, brings the total to $40,000,000. Secretary Shaw already has created a fund of $10,000,000 from the internal revenue receipts to be placed in government depositories if there are signs of a money squeeze. Therefore, when these bonds are redeemed, $80,000,000 will be put in circulation, which will make money easy and keep interest charges within reasonable bounds. If more funds are needed for this purpose the administration will provide them.

Breaks Up Bond Corner.

It was learned that certain brokers in New York and other large cities have been making contracts with some banks for the delivery of 2 per cent bonds. In order to deliver these bonds the banks retired some of their circulation, which action was particularly objectionable at this time, when there is a strong demand for money. The decision to refund will frustrate the plans of the brokers, and will either decrease the price of 2 per cents, which are abnormally high because of the strong demand for them, or increase the price of 3 and 4 per cents, which are low. It is quite probable the effect will be to reduce the price of 2 per cents. Another reason is the wholesome effect it will have on the commercial and industrial world. It is feared if money should become scarce and a consequent rise in interest rates follow, this would have a disastrous effect on the business world and cause a partial cessation of building operations and the postponement of the inauguration of new enterprises.

Security for Circulation.

Of the total issue of $517,000,000 2 per cent bonds, the treasurer already holds for circulation and for deposits $180,000,000. Formal instructions to several subtreasuries authorizing them to redeem the bonds on presentation have been issued. The banks that have had on file with the treasurer for thirty days or more the 5 per cent bonds as security for public deposits will be permitted to substitute approved state and municipal bonds therefor, which will be accepted at 75 per cent of their par value.

It is the belief in well informed circles that it will be found impossible to obtain the entire $20,000,000 in this instance. Regardless of this the effect on the bond market will be the same, and the price of 2 per cents will decline, thus accomplishing what it is plain Secretary Shaw has in mind.

SHAFFER IS TO ESCAPE TRIAL

Impending Impeachment of President of Steel Workers Is Patched Up.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 24.—It is announced that President Shaffer of the Amalgamated Association of Steel and Tin Workers has patched up the trouble for which he was to have been impeached. He will make a statement explaining his absence from duty at a critical period, and this will be accepted by the association.

For two weeks prior to Labor day Shaffer was absent from his office, although several important wage scales were to be decided, and the strike at the Port View tin plate works, since lost, was pending. Shaffer's whereabouts were not known to the public until he appeared at Poughkeepsie, N.Y., on Labor day. He made a brief address and suddenly disappeared again, but reported at the Pittsburg office day or two later. Also there is considerable feeling among the members of the association on account of the failure of the strike against the United States Steel corporation two years ago.

GRAND ARMY MEN ARE BARRED

Action of Lutheran Preacher at Funeral Causes Criticism.

Neenah, Wis., Sept. 24.—A sensation has been caused in local G. A. R. circles over a ruling of Rev. Albert Froehlike which barred G. A. R. men in uniform from attending the funeral services of Ferdinand Sauer in the German Lutheran church. Mr. Froehlike says that his action was merely enforcing the rules of the church. Mr. Sauer was a prominent G. A. R. man and before his death selected members from the local post to act as pall bearers. As a result of the ruling none of the old soldiers attended the funeral. When brought into the church the casket was draped with an American flag and the pastor ordered this removed. His action has caused much criticism in Neenah.
